

EDITORIAL	Lessons from a Legend Geoffrey Precourt 137 Management Slant 139
MIND OVER METRICS	Send This to Your CFO ... Anonymously Pat LaPointe 144
MARKETING MATTERS	Lifting the Productivity of Television Advertising: Nothing Matters More Than the Brand. Nothing. Jenni Romaniuk 146
ARTICLES	The Economic Value of Celebrity Endorsements Anita Elberse and Jeroen Verleun 149 The High Stakes of Sweepstakes: Too Much of a Good Thing Can Demotivate Digital Consumers Caroline Wilcox and Arch G. Woodside 167 How Validation Can Trump Digital Waste and Generate Value across the Digital Advertising Ecosystem Linda Boland Abraham, Anne Hunter, and Andrea Vollman 180 <hr/> ANDREW EHRENBERG: A TRIBUTE The Laws of Marketing Science: Andrew S. C. Ehrenberg (1926–2010). 196 The Ehrenberg Legacy: Lessons in Buying Behavior, Television, Brand Perception, Advertising, and Pricing John Scriven and Gerald Goodhardt 198 It’s a Dirichlet World: Modeling Individuals’ Loyalties Reveals How Brands Compete, Grow, and Decline Byron Sharp, Malcolm Wright, John Dawes, Carl Driesener, Lars Meyer-Waarden, Lara Stocchi, and Philip Stern 203 The Power of Before and After: How the Dirichlet Can Analyze the Sales Impact of a Promotional Activity James McCabe, Philip Stern, and Scott G. Dacko 214 The 38-Percent Solution: Empirical Generalizations for Repeat Viewing of Television Programs Peter J. Danaher and Tracey S. Dagger 225 New Brand Extensions: Patterns of Success and Failure Jaywant Singh, John Scriven, Maria Clemente, Wendy Lomax, and Malcolm Wright 234 Brand Image and Brand Usage: Is a Forty-Year-Old Empirical Generalization Still Useful? Jenni Romaniuk, Svetlana Bogomolova, and Francesca Dall’Olmo Riley 243 In 25 Years, Across 50 Categories, User Profiles for Directly Competing Brands Seldom Differ: Affirming Andrew Ehrenberg’s Principles Mark Uncles, Rachel Kennedy, Magda Nenyecz-Thiel, Jaywant Singh, and Simon Kwok 252 What’s Not to “Like?” Can a Facebook Fan Base Give a Brand the Advertising Reach it Needs? Karen Nelson-Field, Erica Riebe, and Byron Sharp 262 Brand Growth at Mars, Inc.: How the Global Marketer Embraced Ehrenberg’s Science with Creativity Rachel Kennedy and Bruce McColl 270